

About Save & Aid

About Save and Aid Save & Aid provides training in CPR and First Aid to organizations and individuals. We are based in Eastern Massachusetts, but train in all parts of New England. Audiences include Medical and Emergency Medical Practitioners, Teachers, Health Club Staff, Lifeguards, Summer Camp Staff, Fire and Police Personnel, and Youth Audiences such as Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops, and Classroom Students. Save & Aid is a traveling training company – we come to you for training day. This way you can be comfortable in a familiar environment for the essential, life saving training. Plus, students don’t have to worry about finding the course facility or getting lost and late on the way. We bring all necessary training equipment, but if you or your facility have any of your own equipment or devices, all participants can be familiarized with or trained on exactly what they’ll use in an emergency. Save & Aid training programs adhere to national and international standards. Certification is offered through the American Heart Association or the National Safety Council, and all programs are consistent with the most current guidelines release: Guidelines 2005. Save & Aid instructors are experienced in education and emergency care. Instructors have medical experience in hospital settings or field experience as EMTs, and have many hours spent in the front of classrooms. We are trained in Emergency Care instruction and understand the priorities and concerns of course participants at all ages. Save & Aid Courses are offered in English or Spanish! Course materials and instruction can be delivered in either Spanish or English. Please contact us to set up a training date. Please browse the site, and let us know by phone or email if you would like more information! We congratulate you on making safety training a priority and look forward to doing business with you!
